

The Owl stuffed Pillow

1 piece black felt

8 clear rhinestones

1/8yd of gold for beak

1/8 yd of fusible medium to lightweight interfacing

12" of muslin 45" wide

12" of owl body fabric

Blue wash away marker and a permanent black marker

1 package Wonder under

1 fat quarter of wing fabric

1 - 8" X 11" piece of little weight canvas for decorative stitches

Threads for decorative stitches and thread to sew the owl together. I used black thread.

Permanent marker

Print off the patterns and print off 2 copies of the body and head.

Trim the 1 head pattern to the black line and tape it to the body to make a complete owl pattern.

Trace and cut the owl out of muslin adding a ¼" seam all the way around. Using the muslin body, cut the complete body out of the body fabric.

Trace the large circle eyes in white muslin. Place a piece of fleece and muslin under the circle eye and sew the circle on the trace line. Trim the circle close with pinking shears. Cut through the facing side of the eye and turn the eye to the right side. Press.

Trace the beak on the wrong side of gold fabric. Cut a piece of fusible medium to lightweight interfacing and place the fusible side to the right side of the gold beak fabric. Sew the complete triangle. Cut through the interfacing to turn the beak.

Use the 1-8" X 11" piece of little weight canvas for decorative stitches. Trace the center body to the rough side of the wonder under using black permanent mark, allow an additional ¼". Fuse wonder under to one side of the canvas. On the other side (right side) use a wash away maker to draw lines for stitching. My lines were 1" apart. Sew decorative stitches. From the wrong side cut the body part out. Fuse the body piece to the muslin owl complete owl body.

Mark the “wonder under” using the wing tracing for the right and left wing. Using the permanent marker draw $\frac{1}{4}$ ” seam allowances to sides of the wings on the “wonder under”, not front edge of wing, and fuse to wrong side of wing fabric. Cut out the wings on the outside black trace line.

Fuse body center, then wings then head to muslin base fabric to build the owl. Applique the wing edges and head bottom edge in place.

Place the black circle inside the white circle and appliqué. Place the white circle on the owl and appliqué. Place the beak on the owl and appliqué.

Sew the back full body right sides together to the finished front. Leave a hole in the bottom edge for turning. Trim, turn and stuff.

Embellish the eyes with rhinestones glued to the center with “jewel it” glue.
